

Taking off

▼ A PINT FOR POOCH

Need an excuse to take the dog for a walk? Call in at the City Tavern, in Newcastle: the pub is selling bar snacks for dogs, alongside a canine craft ale to wash them down.

Nibbles include Scottish salmon biscuits and venison chews, while the non-alcoholic

"beer", Belgian Snuffles, is made using beef, chicken, malt barley extracts, minerals and vitamins. Owner Dave King's dogs, Alfie, Hector and Dillon, will even keep your mutt company as you stake your own thirst. Cheers Snacks, £3.95; dog beer, £2.95; citytavern.co.uk

► LIVING IN A BUBBLE

Make like Matt Damon in The Martian by taking your own inflatable habitat on your travels.

The Holeyweb Bubble Tent is made of transparent PVC for unobscured 360-degree views of the coastline, countryside or campsite shower block, has its own electrical blower and an airlock to keep it pumped up. At 33ft in diameter, it is big enough to accommodate a double bed for the ultimate in glamping. Supply your own curtains.

£777, plus £400 delivery;
amazon.com

